Flower: pink, double flowers

Fruit: small, reddish-orange

Coralburst is a top-graft crabapple that is excellent for an accent plant. Its smaller mature size makes it a good choice for smaller landscapes. Its pink double flowers cover the branches in spring, then are replaced by dark green foliage. The small, reddish-orange fruit persists well into the fall and provides food for wildlife. The leaves turn a deep yellow in the fall, complementing the fruit. It is very resistant to the common crabapple diseases making it low maintenance.
