(Pinus flexilis 'Vanderwolf's Pyramid')

Mature Height: 20'-30'

Mature Spread: 10'-20'

Growth Rate: Medium

USDA Hardiness zone: 4-7

Vanderwolf pine is an upright, columnar pine with long, blue-green needles. Due to its narrower shape, it is an excellent choice for smaller areas. If left in its natural state, it will grow a more open and irregular shape, but can be pruned in early summer to have a more compact and formal shape. It is tolerant of drought once established, and is resistant to a variety of diseases. It is a low-maintenance tree that can be used as a focal point, or as a screen. It does best in well-drained soils, but will tolerate a wide variety of soils, and also partial shade.
