

'The Blues' Weeping Colorado Spruce

(Picea pungens 'The Blues')

Mature Height: 5'-10'

Mature Spread: 3'-10'

Growth Rate: Medium

USDA Hardiness zone: 2-8

'The Blues' is a dwarf variety of weeping Colorado Blue spruce. Unlike most other varieties of weeping spruce, 'The Blues' does not tend to have a straight, central leader and will instead have a very irregular shape, often times appearing to have a 'creeping' habit. This makes it an amazing, one-of-a-kind accent plant in the landscape. Like all Colorado spruce, it is tolerant of a wide variety of soil and weather conditions. While young, this tree does need significant amount of watering, but once established it is quite drought resistant. It does have the same pest issues as most spruces, so keep a close watch for bagworms and spider mites.
