

London Planetree

(Platanus x acerifolia)

Mature Height: 40'-50'

Mature Spread: 30'-40'

Growth Rate: Very Fast

Fall color: Yellow

London Planetree is a cross between Oriental Planetree and American Sycamore. It is a large, very fast-growing shade tree that is well suited to acreages and large yards. The leaves are large and soft green. The bark is light-colored and sheds much like a birch as the tree matures. It is resistant to anthracnose, tolerant of many soils, and quickly provides abundant shade. It is best planted in large, open spaces and is tolerant of urban growing conditions. The rapid growth rate and preference for open, sunny spaces, make the London Planetree an excellent choice for shade on new acreages with few trees. It is a fairly maintenance free tree that will grow an upright, pyramidal shape.
